FORMER MOTOR VEHICLE EMPLOYEE PLEADS GUILTY TO CONSPIRACY TO RECEIVE GRATUITIES AND TO MAKE FALSE STATEMENTS IN DRIVERS LICENSE APPLICATIONS

Tampa, Fl. - United States Attorney Paul I. Perez today announced that YOLANDA PIPPINS pleaded guilty before United States Magistrate Judge Thomas B. McCoun, III to conspiracy to make false statements and to corruptly solicit and accept things of value in connection with the actions of a State government agency. The charge carries a maximum sentence of five years' imprisonment and a fine of $250,000.

PIPPINS entered her plea of guilty to Count One of an information which the United States filed on July 17, 2006. According to the information and plea agreement and testimony at the guilty plea hearing, PIPPINS was an employee of the Florida Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles and worked at its Largo, Florida office. During the time period alleged in the information, she conspired with other individuals to obtain and receive money and things of value in exchange for approving applications by various license holders to obtain Commercial Drivers Licenses ("CDLs"). She approved these applications despite the lack of qualification of the applicants. In exchange for those actions, PIPPINS received money and things of value from other co-conspirators who steered the CDL applicants to her.

The case was investigated by the United States Department of Transportation-Office of Inspector General, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, and the Florida Highway Patrol and Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles. The case is being prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Jay L. Hoffer of the Tampa Division.
